“In the face of the war in Ukraine, the merit of ICIP has been to take a quick and rigorous position on the conflict free of prejudice and dogmatism.”

XAVIER MASLLORENS

The year of the war in Ukraine

The Russian invasion of Ukraine in February 2022 caught most political analysts and peace organizations off guard despite a decade-long history of failed diplomacy. The merit of ICIP has been to take – and maintain over time – a quick and rigorous position on the conflict free of prejudice and dogmatism, defending the right of the Ukrainian people to legitimate self-defence while denouncing (as we have always done) the doctrine that a world with more arms is a safer world. In other words, denouncing the seemingly endless arms race.

This event has given us a lot of work – and media exposure – throughout the year, in addition to everything else we do related to our four thematic work areas, institutional relations and international commitments. ICIP is consolidating an essential role in these work areas, successfully implementing the thematic focus introduced several years ago and in our influential publication, an annual citizens' survey on coexistence, polarization, security and social cohesion issues.

I would like to highlight the concession of the ICIP Peace in Progress Award 2022 to some twenty organizations in the Basque Country for their diverse and enriching contribution to ending armed violence and promoting peace and democracy in the Basque Country; the concession of the ICIP Alfons Banda Award for Young Research to a student from Manresa and another student from Amposta; and the consolidation of the Hip Hop for Peace Contest, which has reached its sixth edition.

Also noteworthy is the growing collaboration with Catalan peace organizations, with which we have jointly organized various activities, studies and publications. We understand that this helps to energize the peace movement while projecting ICIP in areas relevant to our specialization.

The ICIP Governing Board has changed the three members appointed by the Government of Catalonia this year due precisely to the reshuffling of the Government. We are grateful for the contributions of Josep Desquens, Joan Maria Piqué and Laia Comerma, and we have welcomed Yoya Alcoceba, Anna Dotor and David Minoves, who joined us at the end of the year.

On a more internal level, it is worth mentioning that, in the middle of the year, ICIP had to move its offices into temporary quarters, also located in the city of Barcelona, until we are able to find a permanent location.

Xavier Masllorens
PRESIDENT OF ICIP

“We have increased the number of alliances with other actors, which has allowed us to reach audiences and locations where we had had little presence.”

KRISTIAN HERBOLZHEIMER

A border-straddling entity

ICIP is a unique institution, both in Catalonia and internationally. It is a public institution mainly financed by the budget of the Government of Catalonia. At the same time, it is an institution that acts with complete independence from public administrations. The annual report that you have in your hands must be presented to Parliament and also to the Catalan Council for the Promotion of Peace, the citizen participation entity linked to the promotion of peace. Considering that ICIP’s creation in 2007 resulted from a demand by citizens, we could say that our organization has one foot in the public administration and the other in the social fabric.

Furthermore, ICIP aims to promote a culture of peace, both in Catalan society and internationally.

In a certain way, we are a border-straddling entity between the institutional and social spheres. And as such, we have the possibility and the challenge of innovating in political transformations to increase the impact of our work, not only from ICIP but from all the social, institutional, academic and cultural actors that work to create more just and less violent societies.

In this report, you will see that we have moved decisively in this direction. We have increased the number of alliances with other actors, allowing us to reach audiences and locations where we had little presence. With a commitment to horizontal cooperation – where we all contribute and learn at the same time – we are part of the structure that promotes various networks such as the Catalan Council for the Promotion of Peace, the European Peacebuilding Liaison Office, the Platform for Peacebuilding in Mexico, and the Latin American Network of Women, Peace and Security.

Through three awards and two calls for grants, through our book series, various forms of communication and our four thematic work areas, we interact with many people and entities, create complicities, provide information, and develop new frameworks for analysis and intervention. All of this allows us to collaboratively enrich and diversify the ecosystem of actors that contribute to the promotion of the culture of peace.

Our organization makes sense if society and institutions perceive its usefulness. With this report, you can judge for yourselves.

Psychologist and educator. President of the Board of Governors

Oscar Mateos i Martin

Professor at Ramon Llull University and coordinator of the GLOBALCODES research group

Nour Salameh

PhD in History

Remei Sipi i Mayo

Activist and writer

MEMBERS APPOINTED BY THE GOVERNMENT

Yoya Alcoceba i Cruixent

General Director of Development Cooperation of the Government of Catalonia

Anna Dotor i Casals

General Director of Foreign Action of the Government of Catalonia

David Minoves i Lluçà

President of Ciemen and Director of the Catalan Fund for Development Cooperation

RESOLUTIONS OF THE GOVERNING BOARD

The ICIP Governing Board met twelve times in 2022, and these were the main points that were dealt with:

- Approval of the 2022 call for grants for projects of non-profit organizations aimed at the promotion of peace and for research work in the field of peace
- Approval of the conferment of the ICIP Peace in Progress Award 2022 to the associative network of the Basque Country in favour of peace and approval of the rules and of the call for the ICIP Peace in Progress Award 2023.
- Approval of the call for the seventh edition of the ICIP Hip Hop for Peace Contest.
- Approval of proposals for agreements with various municipalities for the display of the “Face to face with violence” exhibit.
- Approval of agreements with universities and entities for the joint organization of activities and initiatives.
- Approval of the budget for the 2022 financial year and the audit report for the 2021 financial year.
- Approval of the updating of the list of job positions.
- Approval of the resolution proposals of the calls for the 2022 selective stabilization processes.

2 Presidency and management

Throughout the year, the ICIP presidency and management have maintained institutional contacts at different levels, with the three main actors the institution's work is aimed at by law: parliamentary groups, academia and civil society organizations. Synergies and collaborations have been strengthened in Catalonia and internationally, for instance, in Colombia and Mexico.

As established in the law by which ICIP was created, the president, Xavier Masllorens, and the director, Kristian Herbolzheimer, appeared before the Committee on External Action, Transparency and Cooperation of the Parliament of Catalonia on 3 December to present the institution's activity report for 2021.

In his speech, the president of ICIP highlighted the institution's commitment to rethinking the dominant security model in the current context of the war in Ukraine. The director stated the need to update Catalonia's peace agenda and review public policy instruments to promote peace.

The activities presented by ICIP received practically unanimous support from the spokespersons of the various parliamentary groups. The groups Socialistes Units per Avançar, ERC, Junts per Catalunya, CUP and En Comú Podem all expressed their gratitude for the work of dissemination and promotion of peace carried out by ICIP and its contribution to the rise of the culture of peace in Catalan society and around the world.

Thematic work areas

ICIP's activity is structured around four work areas, focused on issues where the institution can provide added value and contribute to theoretical and practical innovation in peacebuilding.

The four areas feature components of analysis and research, raising awareness and advocacy, and alliances with social, academic and institutional actors – in Catalonia and worldwide.

Memory, coexistence and reconciliation

We promote the participation of victims and diasporas in the transition to peace.

Violence in non-war settings

We provide tools for analysis and action in situations of high levels of violence that are not formally considered armed conflicts.

Social and political dialogue

We promote dialogue at different levels, committed to depolarisation, coexistence and cohesion.

Security alternatives

We rethink the traditional vision of security based on the principles of the culture of peace and feminism.

“The participation of the victims, including those who have had to leave countries in conflict, is essential to generate processes of transformation and personal and collective healing.”

SÍLVIA PLANA

1 Memory, coexistence and reconciliation

Wars and dictatorships have a social and political impact on societies and people. These impacts are not overcome by signing a peace agreement or with democratic elections; what is needed is to promote processes for reconstructing the social fabric and reconciliation within the institutions and society itself. It is necessary to rebuild the memory of the events that took place to promote psychosocial healing and generate conditions to avoid repeating cycles of violence.

This work area aims to highlight and support civil society initiatives in processes of transition to peace while promoting the exchange of innovative experiences to foster coexistence, often through creative artistic expressions. In particular, we highlight the role that women and victims can play in processes of peace and memory, specifically focusing on those who have had to leave their country and are in the diaspora.

In 2022, we have focused on our work with the Truth Commission of Colombia, which has concluded with the presentation of its final report. For over three years, ICIP has acted as the Technical Secretariat of the Commission in Europe in an innovative participation process with exiled victims of the Colombian conflict.

Conclusion of the work process with the Truth Commission of Colombia

ICIP acted as the Technical Secretariat of the Truth Commission of Colombia in Europe from 2019 to 2022, the year the commission's work ended, with the presentation of its final report in Bogotá in June.

In this process, ICIP played an outstanding role in coordinating and implementing the participatory approach supporting the commission in ten European countries. ICIP coordinated the various working groups (hubs), acted as a liaison between them and the commission, and played an essential role in the accompaniment and counselling of the commission's interviewers, who collected testimonies from victims living in exile (a total of 800 in Europe).

Meeting of the European hubs in support of the Truth Commission of Colombia, with the participation of Commissioner Lucía González (Barcelona, April 2022).

From 7-10 April 2022, ICIP organized a face-to-face meeting of the European hubs in Barcelona, with the participation of commissioners Lucía González and Carlos Martín Beristain. At this meeting, the conclusion of the commission's work process in Europe was discussed, and strategies to contribute to its legacy and disseminate the final report were promoted. Coinciding with this gathering, ICIP organized the "Colombia: A song for truth from exile" event on 9 April, the Day of Memory and Solidarity with the Victims of the Armed Conflict in Colombia.

In the framework of this process, ICIP continued promoting acts of recognition of the Colombian exile community in Catalonia. In June, the Barcelona Council for International Cooperation and the Sabadell City Council approved motions of recognition for the Colombian exile community and diaspora due to participation processes with people from the diaspora in each city.

Presentation of the commission's final report in Catalonia

Following the public presentation of the Truth Commission's final report in Colombia, ICIP organized an event at the Parliament of Catalonia on 12 July to present the document to the victims of the Colombian conflict exiled in Catalonia and Catalan society. The ceremony, presided over by the president of the Parlament, Laura Borràs, was followed by a thousand people (250 in person and the rest online). Commissioners Carlos Martín Beristain and Alejandro Valencia participated in the event, as well as an interviewer and a victim who testified to the Commission in Catalonia.

Presentation of the Final Report of the Truth Commission of Colombia at the Parliament of Catalonia (July 2022).

The event was jointly organized with the Taula Catalana for Peace and Human Rights in Colombia, the Catalonia Node in support of the Commission and the Catalan Agency for Development Cooperation.

A few days earlier, on 8 July, ICIP also presented the commission's final report at an event in Lleida as part of the Cinemón festival.

At the European level, ICIP attended the presentation of the final report in Bilbao on 6 July in recognition of its work as Technical Secretariat.

In addition, ICIP co-organized, together with the Gender Group in support of the commission, two presentations and in-depth study sessions of the chapter in the report entitled Mi cuerpo es la verdad (My body is the truth), which focuses on the impacts of the conflict on women and LGBTIQ+ people.

Systematization of the process

Following the conclusion of the Truth Commission's work, ICIP has begun the preparation of the systematization of the process carried out as the Technical Secretariat for the Commission in Europe. The report will be published in 2023 to serve as an inspiration for other truth commissions in the world.

Additionally, ICIP has presented the Colombian experience at various public events: for example, at a session at the Born Centre Cultural entitled "The legacy of the Truth Commission" and in a course entitled "The right to truth as a tool for peacebuilding: An international dialogue based on the Colombian experience" at the University of the Basque Country's Summer School.

"Para volverte a ver" documentary

As the Technical Secretariat for the Truth Commission in Europe, ICIP has produced several audiovisual materials to show the impacts of exile and the contribution of the exile community to peacebuilding in Colombia. In 2022, ICIP and the Commission produced the Mandorla Films documentary Para volverte a ver (To see you again). The short was filmed in Denmark, Switzerland and Catalonia, where the exiled protagonists (Yanira Restrepo, Juana Sánchez, Wilmer Torres and Lizeth Álvarez) live.

The documentary was presented in July in Lleida and Barcelona, coinciding with the presentation of the commission's final report. Subsequently, it was screened at various events in Catalonia and also in York (England), Florence (Italy), Toulouse (France) and Fuerteventura (Spain).

The documentary trailer is available on the ICIP YouTube channel.

Election Observation in Colombia

ICIP, as a participating member of the Taula Catalana for Peace and Human Rights in Colombia, participated in the 2022 Catalan Election Observation Mission that oversaw the first round of the Colombian presidential elections, held on 29 May.

The mission, coordinated by Taula Catalana, comprised 36 observers, representatives of Catalan civil society in solidarity with Colombia, and institutional representatives from the Catalan Parliament, the Congress of Deputies, municipalities and local Catalan organizations. Three people from the technical team and a member of the Governing Board participated on behalf of ICIP.

The Mission began its work in the legislative elections of March 2022 with the deployment of a technical team of five people. In both cases, the election observation was carried out following international standards.

Analysis of diasporas

To continue to innovate and contribute to the construction of peace, memory and coexistence, ICIP has advanced conceptualizing and identifying strategies and opportunities to inspire and enhance the capacity of people in the diaspora as relevant actors for transforming their country of origin.

Along these lines, internal meeting spaces have been organized with women from the diasporas of Ukraine, Russia and Syria, as well as the public event "Women in the diaspora: The power of art in peacebuilding," as part of the Barcelona Biennale of Thought, at the Sant Gervasi-Joan Maragall Library. In this case, the session featured women's experiences from Colombia, Ukraine and Syria.

“It is essential that peace actors pay attention and prioritize situations of chronic violence due to their gravity and impact.”

SABINA PUIG

2 Violence in non-war settings

Over the last few years, the number of violent deaths in situations not considered war contexts has exceeded the number of fatalities in armed conflicts. Latin America leads the global ranking of homicides, the most visible expression of a wide range of violence with a complex network of actors, often including the institutions themselves. This chronic and high-intensity violence has been addressed mainly from the logic of police and repressive security. Still, the answers do not help solve the problem and tend to worsen it.

At ICIP, we want to emphasize the need to address violence in non-war settings from a peacebuilding perspective. This requires developing new concepts, adapting methodological tools and encouraging the exchange of experiences among social, academic and institutional actors.

In 2022, we focused on the situation in Mexico, a country with alarming levels of violence and impunity, intending to analyze their causes and identify pending challenges. One of the most significant achievements was the creation of the Platform for Peacebuilding in Mexico, promoted by ICIP and prominent peace and human rights organizations from Mexico.

Monographic issue of Peace in Progress magazine

ICIP has dedicated the 40th issue of the Peace in Progress magazine to “Violence in non-war settings,” which, in line with this work area, aims to give visibility to extremely alarming violent situations and provide tools to the people and organizations that work to deal with them.

The monograph, published simultaneously in English, Catalan and Spanish, consists of a framework article by publication coordinator Sabina Puig and seven in-depth articles by Mohamed Daghar, Ana Glenda Tager, José Antonio Guevara Bermúdez, Esperanza Hernández Delgado; Roger Mac Ginty, Jordi Mir and Carolina Ricardo. It also includes an interview with Mary Kaldor. The monograph was publicly launched in a session via Twitter Spaces.

With the publication of this monograph, we launched the new digital version of the magazine, a wholly updated platform with a new design that facilitates navigation and the perusal of all the issues published so far.

The monographic issue of the Peace in Progress magazine was published in English, Catalan and Spanish.

The Platform for Peacebuilding in Mexico

The Platform for Peacebuilding in Mexico is a space for dialogue and synergy that, since 2020, has brought together people and organizations linked to the Global Partnership for the Prevention of Armed Conflict (GPPAC), Bread for the World's Civil Peace Service and the First International Forum for Peacebuilding in Mexico, which took place in Barcelona in 2019 and was organized by ICIP, Serapaz and Taula per Mèxic.

Three online analysis meetings were held in 2022, featuring experts' participation in various peacebuilding areas.

In October, the Platform held its first face-to-face meeting in San Cristóbal de las Casas, Chiapas, Mexico. In a symbolic event held in the community of Acteal, the Platform reaffirmed its commitment to transforming violence through a peacebuilding approach in Mexico. This event marked the formal creation of the Platform and its public presentation. The Platform comprises 24 organizations – including ICIP – plus several people from activism, journalism, academia and culture who collaborate personally.

International peacebuilding forums in Mexico

In 2022, ICIP organized two international meetings in Mexico, in collaboration with local actors, to promote awareness and the transfer of knowledge about the multiple violence present in the country.

The forum “Journalism and Peacebuilding in Mexico: Protecting journalists, guaranteeing freedom of the press” took place in Mexico City on 20-21 June. The event was jointly organized by ICIP, the Barcelona City Council and Taula per Mèxic, with the collaboration of Aluna, Artículo 19, CIMAC and Periodistas de a Pie. The forum provided an opportunity to debate and analyze the vulnerability of Mexican journalism and the challenges faced by the sector to establish itself as an actor in peacebuilding and transformation. Numerous Mexican journalists participated in the event, many of whom participated in the “Barcelona protects journalists from Mexico” program promoted by the Barcelona City Council.

The forum “Peacebuilding in Mexico: Challenges and keys in the current context” took place on 25 October in San Cristóbal de las Casas, Chiapas, and was organized by the Platform for Peacebuilding in Mexico as part of its formal launch.

The forum gathered more than 500 people, many from Mexican communities directly affected by violence and involved in peace projects. In addition to well-known Mexican participants, Nobel Prize winner Adolfo Pérez Esquivel, the former commissioner of the Truth Commission of Colombia, Marta Ruiz, and experts such as Luis Jorge Garay and Jenny Pearce were also in attendance.

Watch the videos from the “Peacebuilding in Mexico” forum.

Analysis of the violence in El Salvador

Throughout the year, ICIP organized three small-format sessions to analyze the situation in El Salvador, one of the most violent countries in the world. The focus was placed on violence carried out by criminal gangs, organized crime, and public policies to address the situation. The sessions featured the participation of the academic Chris van der Borgh, human rights defender Miguel Montenegro, and journalist and anthropologist Juan Martínez d’Aubuisson.

Conversation with journalist and anthropologist Juan Martínez d’Aubuisson in Barcelona, November 2022.

At the same time, ICIP has continued to participate in the research project “LEBAN: Legalize gangs? The creation of associations from youth street groups in Spain, Ecuador and El Salvador: Assessment and future prospects (2000-2025).”

“Face to face with violence” exhibit

Through photography and interviews, the outdoor exhibition “Face to face with violence: Stories of resilience in Central America” is a journey through the many faces of violence that affect daily life in three countries of Central America known as the Northern Triangle: El Salvador, Guatemala and Honduras.

However, the exhibition also gives voice to the people who fight daily to stand up to this violence. In 2022, the exhibition was on display in various Catalan municipalities (for more information, see the section on “Exhibitions and audiovisual productions”).

“The goal of dialogue promotion initiatives is to promote coexistence and social cohesion.”

PABLO AGUIAR

3 Social and political dialogue

Conflicts are part of human nature, and when managed constructively, they contribute to social progress. But if they are not recognized and treated in time, they can affect social coexistence and, in extreme cases, escalate to violent scenarios. When a section of the population denies legitimacy and advocates the elimination of divergent democratic thinking, polarisation becomes toxic: a destructive dynamic that also affects consolidated democracies.

This work area offers tools for analyzing, managing and transforming conflicts, specifically promoting dialogue to prevent or redirect conflicts: political dialogue at the institutional level and social dialogue in all spheres of society.

Dialogue promotion initiatives

Between October and December 2022, ICIP organized several initiatives to promote conversation and listening between people with distant, even opposing, positions.

Four series were organized, bringing together influential people from various spheres of society and diverse opinions; young people with positions of responsibility in political parties and social organizations; teachers; and international experts—these experiences aimed to test different methodologies.

The initiatives that were carried out are as follows: the first and second editions of the Àgora Project, developed with the Catalunya Europa Foundation and Casa del Clàssics, to debate on the political conflict in Catalonia; dialogue sessions with young people from civil society and political party youth organizations; sessions aimed at secondary school teachers, conducted by the School for a Culture of Peace, to address how to deal with the discrepancy in classrooms; and the session “Difficult conversations in polarised times,” organized by The Protopia Lab and addressed to an international audience.

ICIP survey on Polarization and coexistence

ICIP published the survey Polarization and coexistence in Spain 2021: The role of the territories, as a continuation of the previous surveys published in 2018 and 2020, to measure the degree of coexistence and polarization in Spain.

The survey was drawn up jointly with Esade’s Economic Policy Center (EsadeEcPol) and was publicly presented in April 2022. The document has been published in Catalan and Spanish, and an English version of the executive summary containing the key ideas is also available.

At the same time, work began on a new survey in 2022, to be published in 2023, to monitor the perception of the degree of coexistence and polarization. In this case, the sample also focuses on social cohesion, the appraisal of arms spending, and the refugee crisis following the outbreak of war in Ukraine.

Cohesion space in Igualada

Intending to offer tools for the analysis, management and transformation of conflicts, ICIP, in collaboration with the Ateneu Igualadí, has organized a cohesion space in Igualada (Anoia) to facilitate peaceful debate among people who hold different positions on the Catalan pro-independence process. Five sessions have been held in which thirteen people representing the social and ideological diversity of the city have participated.

Build Peace 2022

With a talk about the risks of polarization, ICIP participated in the Build Peace 2022 conference, which took place in Chemnitz (Germany) in November.

“We must move towards security policies that focus on people and communities, the sustainability of life.”

4 Security alternatives

The classic conception of security has considered national sovereignty, territorial integrity and public order as the main assets to protect against external and internal threats. Under this paradigm, the state analyses the risks and pursues its security by increasing its political, police and military dominance.

The most prominent security policies are founded on this notion and are primarily based on reactive and punitive frameworks of social control and armed action. These strategies are inefficient because they do not address the causes of conflicts or aim to transform them. Paradoxically, they often reinforce the culture of violence that they seek to reduce.

The “Security alternatives” work area aims to promote discourses and alternative practices to the traditional notion of security, especially from a feminist-pacifist perspective.

Working group on public security in Catalonia

ICIP has promoted and coordinated a working group on security in public policies in Catalonia since 2021. The aim is to analyze the police and security model in Catalonia and assess the feasibility of a review based on the positive transformation of conflicts and the culture of peace. Its current task is facilitating spaces for joint analysis and reflection between social groups, police forces, local governments and other strategic security actors. Consultant and trainer Noemí Ayguase-nosa and researcher Nora Miralles are currently the two participants in this group.

In November, the group participated in the roundtable “Concrete experiences of security from civil society and communities: Successes and obstacles” in the framework of the sixth edition of the Conference on Peacebuilding with a Gender Perspective organized by the Ibero-American University of Mexico City (IBERO).

Related to the activity of this working group, ICIP will publish the book Local policies of human and community security: Good practices in Barcelona in the “Tools for peace, security and justice” book series.

Contributions to the Parliament of Catalonia’s Study Commission on the Police Model

In 2022, at the request of the Parliament of Catalonia, ICIP participated in the legislative body’s Study Commission on the Police Model. This commission aimed to politically and publicly debate the current public order model and face new challenges in terms of security and the demand for transparency. ICIP has drawn up a document with contributions focused on the need to rethink the current security model.

Research on the approach to security in university studies in Catalonia

ICIP is promoting research to analyze how the Catalan university system trains future professionals in charge of managing public security in the local, national and international spheres. This research focuses on university studies in social and political sciences and examines all teaching plans published for the 2022-2023 academic year.

The research uses techniques for obtaining and analyzing quantitative and qualitative information to determine what approach to security the actors involved – teachers and students – integrate and adopt. The study is strategically coordinated by ICIP and carried out by a work team of research and teaching staff from various Catalan universities.

Completion of the research and publication of the results is expected in the autumn of 2023.

European security

ICIP has initiated a process of reflection and internal analysis of current debates in European security from a historiographical and international relations perspective. Following the start of the war in Ukraine in February 2022, a series of events have occurred that require special attention from the European order in matters of security and defence, especially concerning the growing militarisation, as well as the changes that may occur in the coming decades in the configuration of the continent’s security architecture.

As part of this process, in September 2022, ICIP participated in the “Berlin Peace Dialogue: Europe in the Shadow of War” conference organized by the Advisory Council for Civil Crisis Prevention and Peacebuilding of the German Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

In the analysis of European security, ICIP has also participated in the Fundipau publication “Pending lessons from the war in Ukraine,” which was presented at a roundtable on 30 November during the Third Alfons Banda Conference.

Presentation of the book “An alternative security framework” at the ICIP Library, with the participation of the authors (June 2022).

“An alternative security framework”

This book, published in the “Tools for peace, security and justice” series, aims to bring together theories critical of purely state and armed security, reducing the distance between their approaches and setting forth a minimum common denominator for transformation.

It was written by Teddy Baker, Olga Batallé and Francesc Teodoro and has been published simultaneously in Catalan, Spanish and English. It is available online (PDF and ePub) and in paper formats.

In 2022, ICIP organized two sessions with the authors, one face-to-face and one virtual, to present the book to a specialized audience.

Situational analysis sessions

ICIP periodically convenes conversations to analyze emerging or recurring conflicts, with sessions open to the public and sometimes behind closed doors.

The war in Ukraine declared on 24 February, has marked 2022 and has captured much of ICIP's attention.

The war in Ukraine

Like all wars, the war in Ukraine has had humanitarian, economic, political and environmental consequences, but this particular invasion has shaken peacebuilding efforts at the European and global levels. The war has called into question European security and unleashed an arms race with dire consequences.

ICIP, as a peace institution, has followed the war from an analytical perspective. Before the invasion outbreak, on 3 February, ICIP organized the analysis session "War games in Ukraine" with researcher Vicenç Fisas and journalist Pilar Bonet to evaluate the possible consequences of war.

At the outbreak of the war, ICIP published a statement and began producing a compilation of articles and reflections on the invasion, with a particular page on the website. Based on a collaboration agreement with the Novact Institute in April, ICIP began researching strategies for nonviolent resistance to the war. On 30 May, ICIP invited the Secretary General of the International Peace Research Association, Matt Meyer, to share his thoughts on the impacts of the war in the workshop "Challenges for peace research and peacebuilding in the aftermath of the invasion of Ukraine" which was held at the ICIP Library.

Research on nonviolent resistance

Based on the collaboration agreement signed with Novact, ICIP co-financed an exploratory mission in Ukraine led by researcher Felip Daza between 2-18 April. During this mission, data and testimonies were collected from interviews with 55 political and social actors in the country and, as a result of this fieldwork, ICIP and Novact have published the following materials:

ICIP report: “Strategies of nonviolent civil resistance to the war in Ukraine,” by Felip Daza.

The document analyses 235 nonviolent civil resistance actions registered between February and June 2022. It includes several recommendations for Ukrainian and international governments and civil society to strengthen nonviolence to transform conflicts. Friedrich Schiller University Jena and the German NGO Corridors collaborated to publish this report. It is available in electronic format in English, Catalan, Spanish and Ukrainian.

Interactive map of the nonviolent actions registered in Ukraine between February and June 2022. Available in English, Catalan and Spanish on the ICIP website.

Series of three videos about specific experiences of nonviolence.

The project led by ICIP and Novact was presented on 25 May at LaFede.cat as part of the panel discussion “Ukraine: nonviolent resistances. How does civil society organize in the face of the invasion?” The roundtable featured the participation of representatives of Ukrainian associations in Catalonia. The ICIP report was publicly presented at an event at LaFede.cat on 18 October.

Watch the series of three videos on the ICIP YouTube channel.

Other analysis sessions

Revolt in Iran

ICIP and CIDOB jointly organized the analysis session “Woman. Life. Freedom” to analyze the revolt unleashed in Iran following the death in police custody of the young woman Mahsa Amini. The event, which took place on 3 November, featured the participation of political scientist Anahita Nassir and Professor Antoni Segura.

Violence in El Salvador

Within the framework of the “Violence in non-war settings” work area, ICIP organized three small-format sessions to analyze the situation in El Salvador, one of the most violent countries in the world. Specifically, the sessions aimed to examine the violence exercised by criminal gangs, organized crime, and public policies to deal with it. The events featured the participation of academic Chris van der Borgh (10 May), human rights defender Miguel Montenegro (9 November), and journalist and anthropologist Juan Martínez d’Aubuisson (29 November).

Peacebuilding in Somalia and Manipur

In 2022, ICIP organized the working seminar “European diplomacy in the construction of peace and security in Africa: Problems, lessons and challenges of the role of the EU in Somalia.” This event, which took place on 24 May, featured the participation of the former ambassador of the European Union in Somalia, Nicolás Berlanga Martínez. ICIP also organized a talk, on 20 April, with the activist Binakshmi Nepram, who spoke about the conflict in Manipur, in northeastern India.

Peace meeting in South Sudan

In November, ICIP participated in the seminar “From conflict to beloved communities: A series of international gatherings on peace, justice and nonviolence” in Juba, South Sudan. The International Fellowship of Reconciliation (IFOR), the International Peace Research Association (IPRA) and ONAD South Sudan organized the event with the collaboration of ICIP. Professor Oscar Mateos, ICIP’s Governing Board member, participated in the conference.

Awards, calls for proposals and grants

ICIP disseminates the culture of peace by awarding grants to entities and research groups and through awards and competitions that seek to recognize outstanding initiatives for promoting peace.

The ICIP Peace in Progress Award, with its eleven years of history, is the institution's key award.

The Hip Hop for Peace Contest and the ICIP Alfons Banda Award, part of the Youth Research Awards, are worth mentioning as initiatives aimed at young people.

1 ICIP Peace in Progress Award

The ICIP Peace in Progress Award has conferred annually to honour and publicly recognize individuals, groups or entities that, outstandingly and extensively, have worked for and contributed to promoting peace.

The ceremony of the ICIP 2022 Award at the Parliament of Catalonia on 21 September, the International Day of Peace.

The ICIP Governing Board grants the award. It consists of public recognition, a sculpture created by the Nobel Peace Prize winner, artist and activist Adolfo Pérez Esquivel, called Porta del Sol, and a financial award of 6,000 euros.

In 2022, the ICIP Award was granted to the entirety of civil society peace initiatives of the Basque Country “for their contribution to the advancement of peace, the end of political violence and the creation of new frameworks of coexistence and reconciliation.” These initiatives include several groups and NGOs, some of which have played a key role in advancing towards resolving the conflict, such as the Permanent Social Forum and the now-dissolved Coordinadora Gesto por la Paz and Elkarri/Lokarri.

Also included are entities that work for peace education and promote coexistence and human rights through the Forum of Associations for Education in Peace and Human Rights, where Gernika Gogoratuz plays an important role. Finally, the award honours the dialogue initiatives involving victims, such as the Citizens-Memory Lab Meetings or the Restorative Encounters between prisoners and victims of ETA.

The call for nominations for the twelfth edition of the ICIP Award was announced in 2022, and the winner will be determined in 2023.

2 ICIP Hip Hop for Peace Contest

The ICIP Hip Hop for Peace Contest aims to promote the values of the culture of peace and nonviolence among young people through hip-hop.

Launched in 2016, this contest has the support of the Department of Education of the Government of Catalonia, the Catalan Agency for Youth and the Catalan Agency for Development Cooperation.

The award ceremony for the Sixth Hip Hop for Peace Contest took place in April at Lleiultat Santesenca in Barcelona, with the participation of the award-winning groups.

Category 1: Open to students in Catalonia in compulsory high school (ESO), vocational training and post-compulsory high school

- First prize: “Respect,” a video created by students in the third year of ESO from the Bages Sud High School in Castellbisbal i el Vilar (Bages); winners of the recording and musical production of a rap piece in a professional recording studio with artistic support. This video denounces situations that lead to school bullying or discrimination based on sexual orientation.
- Second prize: “Pandèmia i drets humans,” a video created by students in the third year of ESO from Lloret de Mar High School (La Selva); winners of a rap workshop led by a professional hip hop artist. In this case, the video denounces the situation of thousands of people who try to reach Europe from Africa on dangerous sea crossings.
- Special mentions: “Amor i respecte,” a video created by students from Domus d’Olivet High School in Canovelles (Vallès Oriental); and “Llutícia,” by the students from Vall de Llémèna High School in Sant Gregori (Gironès).

Category 2: Open to young people between 12 and 25 who participate in Catalonia's youth, cultural, civic or socio-educational centres

- First prize: "Is the same," a video created by young people from Fàbrica Jove de Salt (Fundació Catalana de l'Esplai) in Salt (Gironès); winners of the recording and musical production of a rap piece in a professional recording studio with artistic support. This piece deals with issues such as ethnic discrimination, immigration and sexism.
- Second prize: "Déjanos vivir en paz," a video created by young people from Club Infantil i Juvenil Santfeliu-Sant Ildefons in L'Hospitalet de Llobregat (Barcelonès); winners of a rap workshop led by a professional hip hop artist. This piece deals with inequality and gender discrimination.

The call for the eighth edition of the contest was announced in 2022, and the winners will be determined in 2023.

3 ICIP Alfons Banda Award

The ICIP Alfons Banda Award recognizes the work of students in the third and fourth years of high school (ESO) and in post-compulsory education (high school after age 16 and intermediate and higher level vocational training courses), which promotes the analysis and achievement of results in the theoretical field of building a culture of peace or the practical application of nonviolent conflict management.

This award is part of the Young Research Awards conferred by the Agency for the Management of University and Research Grants (AGAUR) to promote the scientific spirit of young people.

Winners of the Fifth ICIP Alfons Banda Award

- "Analyse comparative des chansons de la guerre civile espagnole (1936-1939)," by Anna Pons Muns from Lluís de Peguera High School in Manresa.
- "Consum de moda sostenible per a adolescents," by Marta Pons Obradós from Berenguer IV High School in Amposta.

The call for the sixth edition of the ICIP Alfons Banda Award was announced in 2022, and the winners will be determined in 2023.

4 Grants

Once again, ICIP announced the annual calls for grant applications for research work in peace (R-ICIP) and for projects of entities, foundations and non-profit cooperatives promoting peace.

In 2022, the total amount of each grant line has increased to 80,000 euros.

Projects receiving grants in 2022 call for research work in the field of peace:

- The new mandatory due diligence rules are a response to the violence suffered by human rights defenders and environmentalists (Rovira i Virgili University).
- Representations and experiences of communities involved in military conflicts in heritage memory spaces (School of Tourism, Hospitality and Gastronomy, CETT).
- Incorporation of a feminist and crosscutting perspective to local security policies (Fundació Universitària Balmes).
- Dialogues of dream life: Experiences of violence and perspectives on peace in women's groups (University of Barcelona).
- The responsibility of the state and private entities for international crimes in the Brazilian Amazon: The price of greed (Autonomous University of Barcelona).

- The nonviolence meetings in Castellterçol and the pacifist movement in Catalonia: Action-Reflection (University of Barcelona).
- Hate in social media: The agora of misogyny. An analysis of the anti-feminist discourse and media and institutional coverage of these issues on Twitter, Facebook and Instagram (University of Lleida).
- From a youth for war to a youth for peace: Youth Movements and Education (1914-2022). Past, present and future (University of Barcelona).

Projects receiving grants in the 2022 call for non-profit organizations:

- Revealing the privatization of war in Ukraine: Research, communication and advocacy on human rights violations by private military and security companies (Novact).
- Migrant Women Peacebuilders (Mujer Diáspora).
- Migrant Voices LAB: Laboratory for the promotion of the political and social participation of migrants in Girona (AZAHARA Cultural Association for Development Cooperation).
- Healing in the diaspora (Crisàlide Communication Cooperative, SCCL).
- Correspondence: Photo exchange between women survivors of sexist violence in Barcelona (Catalonia) and Nablus (Palestine) (HÈLIA Association in Support of Women Who Suffer Gender Violence).
- The Syrian commune, voices of the diaspora (Contrast Collective Association of Journalists).

In both cases, the project execution period began on 1 September 2022 and will continue through 31 August 2023.

A woman with dark hair is looking directly at the camera. She is holding a framed black and white photograph of a man and a woman. The man is wearing glasses and a suit with a bow tie. The woman is wearing a dark top. The background is a soft-focus indoor setting.

Exhibitions and production of audiovisual materials

Since its creation, ICIP has produced a variety of exhibitions and audiovisual materials related to the topics of our four work areas. These materials are available to organizations and administrations interested in their dissemination.

“Para volverte a ver” (To see you again)

Short about the Colombian exile community in Europe and its contribution to the process of the Truth Commission of Colombia. The documentary, produced by Mandorla Films, was released in July, coinciding with the presentation of the Commission’s Final Report in Barcelona and Lleida. Since then, it has been screened at European festivals in Florence, Fuerteventura, Toulouse and York, and Caracas (Venezuela) at the International Human Rights Film Festival, where it received a special mention.

“Face to face with violence: Stories of resilience in Central America”

The exhibition was created by Ruido Photo and produced by ICIP. Through photography and interviews, the exhibit is a journey through the many faces of the violence that affects everyday life in three Central American countries known as the Northern Triangle: El Salvador, Guatemala and Honduras. At the same time, it puts faces on the brave people who dedicate their time to dealing with this violence with a surprising capacity for resilience.

In 2022, the exhibition was on display in Granollers, Ripoll, Sant Boi de Llobregat, Sant Cugat del Vallès, Sant Quirze del Vallès, Sant Vicenç dels Horts and Terrassa.

“Fence-World”

This exhibition, created by the Enmedio collective and produced by ICIP, reflects on walls and borders and explores ways to overcome the logic of separation and stigmatization. In October 2022, the exhibit was on display at the University of Lleida, where the Enmedio collective organized a reflection workshop.

Book series

ICIP publishes books in collaboration with different publishers, intending to disseminate the culture of peace to a broad audience. The books are categorized into four series, which already comprise 77 books.

Books released in 2022

- Papers de pau (edited by Mar Valldeoriola and Jordi Algué). “Classics of peace and nonviolence” series, co-published with Angle Editorial.

Collection of 41 texts by Arcadi Oliveres, some previously unpublished, that evoke his pacifist legacy, from the denunciation of war to the necessary culture of peace.
- Sobre la violència, by Hannah Arendt (new edition). “Classics of peace and non-violence” series, co-published with Angle Editorial.

Reflection on the rhetoric of violence and the concepts of power, strength and authority by one of the most influential political thinkers of the 20th century.
- An alternative security framework, by Teddy Baker, Olga Batallé and Francesc Teodoro. “Tools for peace, security and justice” series.

A manual that interweaves different critical theories about the dominant, purely state and armed security model and that provides alternative perspectives.

In 2022, ICIP also worked on the editions of four titles that will be published in the first quarter of 2023:

- Fer Front. Resistència al servei militar i antimilitarisme a Catalunya (1971-1989), by Carlos Ángel Ordás. “Nonviolence and the struggle for freedom” series, co-published with Pagès Editors.
- Polítiques locals de seguretat humana i comunitària: Bones pràctiques a la demarcació de Barcelona, by Nora Miralles Crespo. “Tools for peace, security and justice” series.
- Bidelagun. Acompañamiento a procesos de diálogo en Euskal Herria, by Aitziber Blanco. “Tools for peace, security and justice” series.
- ETA: el desenlace. La paz esquiva en el País Vasco, by Teresa Whitfield. “Peace and security” series.

Library and documentation centre

The ICIP Library responds to the commitment to establishing and maintaining a library that promotes research and knowledge transfer. Since its creation, it has become the leading library on issues related to the culture of peace, security and conflicts. The centre is open to the general public, and its primary service is lending books and other materials.

Its specific areas of expertise range from nonviolence to peacebuilding, conflict transformation, political science, international relations, disarmament, terrorism, cooperation and development, and nonviolent social movements.

Concerning the library's lending services, 2022 was marked by the change of the Institute's location in June, meaning the library no longer has an independent physical space. In our new offices, the office space had to be adapted to fit the entire collection, but this has dramatically affected its use and the ease of access to the documents. Currently, there is only one workstation in service for users.

The change resulted in a sudden alteration in the in-person library service for several months. And there has been a minimal increase in the number of users registered to use loan services. Currently, we have 580 users in our database.

The library is a member of the Network of Specialized Libraries of the Government of Catalonia (XBEG in its Catalan initials) and, since 2016, an associate member of the Consortium of University Services of Catalonia (CSUC). The library belongs to the Collective Catalogue of Catalan Universities (CCUC), which has over five million titles and provides access to more than ten million physical documents. It also incorporates the archives of CSUC member libraries and other associated libraries. In 2022, despite serving a much more limited public, our collection continued to grow progressively. A total of 165 new monographs were acquired, meaning that the library now has 9,700 volumes, most of which are books, including audiovisual materials. The lending service remained active throughout the year thanks mainly to inter-library lending, that is, from the centres that form the networks in which the library actively participates.

One goal for 2022 was to increase our collaboration with other libraries, especially public libraries aimed at a more general public. In this sense, we have focused on distributing our publications throughout Catalonia, promoting reading clubs, and sharing professional experiences with similar centres.

Reading clubs

In 2022, ICIP organized several reading clubs in collaboration with public libraries, taking advantage of the literary focus of the books published in the “Classics of peace and nonviolence” series.

Reading club session held at the Sant Gervasi Library in Barcelona in November 2022.

In conjunction with the Libraries of Barcelona, we included the book The Adventures of Wesley Jackson in one of the jam-packed reading club sessions held at the Sant Gervasi-Joan Maragall Library. A virtual book club was also held, an initiative that promotes reading and dialogue through new technologies. These are reading clubs in which writers, publishers, translators and cultural journalists converse with readers through an instant messaging service (Telfy) and by video conference, allowing for an augmented reading of the books in digital format. Throughout November, this club also read Saroyan’s novel, which we edited in ePub for the occasion. The session was led by Jordi Martín Lloret, the book’s translator into Catalan.

In conjunction with the Just M. Casero Library in Girona, we have co-organized a peace-themed club with various readings of ICIP publications. The first session, also on Saroyan’s book, was led by Irene Pujadas. There are two more sessions scheduled in the same series during the first semester of 2023, in which participants will discuss the book Papers de pau, a collection of texts by Arcadi Oliveres, and Transparentes: Historias del exilio colombiano, a book by Javier de Isusi that captures part of the work carried out by the Truth Commission of Colombia.

Bibliography on peacebuilding

The ICIP Library has produced the bibliography “Peacebuilding and conflict resolution” for the series of thematic bibliographies of the Public Library Service of Catalonia. It is a selection of readings to understand peacebuilding from different perspectives and includes many of ICIP’s publications.

The bibliography was produced in collaboration with the Catalan Agency for Development Cooperation and the Library Service of the Government of Catalonia.

Linked to the thematic bibliography, ICIP has donated 750 books published by the institution to 28 public libraries in Catalonia participating in the “Read conflicts, build peace” edition of the Libraries without Borders program.

International visits

On an international level, the ICIP Library has exchanged publications with the Museo Casa de la Memoria in Medellín (Colombia) and, on an in-person visit, was able to learn firsthand about the social work carried out by the Parque San Javier Library of the Medellín Public Library System.

Through the distributor Fares Libros, the entire “Peace and security” book series has been delivered to Colombian entities, such as the University of Ibagué, the Peace and Region Node, and the Agency for Reincorporation and Normalization (ARN).

In 2022, we also received a visit from the director of Gernika Gogoratuz, María Oianguren. This research centre in the Basque Country has incorporated all of ICIP’s publications into its specialized collection. We have also actively participated in book fairs and conferences, such as the LIBER International Book Fair, the Catalan Book Week and the Literal Book Fair.

Synergies with other actors and internationalization

One of ICIP's main commitments is to create synergies between social, academic and institutional actors in Catalonia and worldwide. This commitment results in several levels of collaboration.

1 Participation in international organizations, networks and conferences

▪ Spanish Association for Peace Research (AIPAZ)

ICIP has been a member of the AIPAZ network since the creation of our institution in 2008. The network comprises 25 NGOs, research centres, chairs, institutes and people related to research and education for peace throughout Spain.

In 2022, ICIP participated in the anniversary of the creation of the network in Zaragoza, in an event in which Professor Antoni Pigrau, a former member of the ICIP Governing Board, received the Francisco A. Muñoz Award, in recognition of his trajectory in the promotion of peace.

▪ Truth Commission of Colombia

ICIP acted as the Technical Secretariat for the Truth Commission of Colombia in Europe from 2019 to 2022, coordinating the 15 working groups active in 11 European countries. The Secretariat's objective was to document Colombian exiles' experiences (see the "Memory, coexistence and reconciliation" work area section for more information).

This task involved coordination with leading organizations such as Hegoa (Basque Country), swisspeace (Switzerland), the Swedish Foundation for Human Rights (Sweden) and the CAPAZ Institute (Germany). Once the commission's mandate concluded, the Technical Secretariat ended its functions in 2022 with the presentation and socialization of its Final Report.

▪ Catalan Council for the Promotion of Peace

The director of ICIP holds the position of second vice president of this consultative and participatory entity. The Council comprises representatives of the Government of Catalonia, local entities, parliamentary groups, non-governmental organizations for peace and other relevant institutions and personalities recognized for their activities in favour of peace. The Council is the body that proposes candidates for the ICIP Governing Board elected by the Parliament of Catalonia.

▪ European Peacebuilding Liaison Office (EPLO)

This European Platform of NGOs aims to influence the European Union's public policies on peacebuilding and the prevention of violent conflicts. In addition, it is a space for cooperation and collaboration with leading European organizations in promoting peace and offers specialized training in this field. The network includes 48 member organizations from 18 countries, and ICIP is the only member from Spain. In 2022, ICIP director Kristian Herbolzheimer was renewed as a member of the network's Steering Committee, a position he has held since 2020. ICIP has been a member of EPLO since 2019.

▪ The Platform for Peacebuilding in Mexico

ICIP is one of the driving forces behind this new Platform set up in 2019, partly due to the First International Forum for Peacebuilding in Mexico that ICIP, Serapaz and Taula per Mèxic convened in Barcelona. The creation of the Platform was formalized on 28 October with a symbolic event in the community of Acteal, Chiapas.

This Platform aims to coordinate local, regional, national and international efforts. It comprises organizations, activists, journalists, artists and academics committed to transforming violence through a peacebuilding approach. The goal is to become a space for shared analysis, an exchange of knowledge, solidarity and collective action.

▪ Taula Catalana for Peace and Human Rights in Colombia

ICIP is an observer organization of the Taula Catalana Coordinating Group for Peace and Human Rights in Colombia, an alliance whose objective is to strengthen ties and increase collaboration among the entities members of the Platform. The formal participation of ICIP in Taula Catalana allows us to enhance our work related to peacebuilding in Colombia, especially in assisting with the processes of truth, justice and recognition of the victims of the Colombian armed conflict. ICIP regularly participates in the activities of Taula Catalana, such as the annual conference in November 2022 entitled "Colombia towards total peace: Challenges and hopes."

▪ Latin American Network of Women, Peace and Security

ICIP has been part of this alliance since 2020. It aims to contribute to peacebuilding in Latin America and the Caribbean, including its diasporas, from a feminist perspective and through generating knowledge, advocacy and collective action. The network's annual meeting for 2022 took place in Mexico City from 10-14 October.

In 2022, among other activities, the group held in-person and virtual workshops on security and dialogue in Mexico and Colombia, participated in the Conference on Peacebuilding with a Gender Perspective of the Ibero-American University in Mexico City (IBERO), and organized a training process for 30 members of the network's organizations. The training is part of developing a Feminist School that will soon be available as a virtual specialization course to the general public.

2 Support for initiatives promoting peace

▪ Cities Defending Human Rights

Since 2013, ICIP has been one of the public institutions and organizations that support the Cities Defending Human Rights project, in which various Catalan municipalities participate. The initiative aims to raise awareness about the work of human rights activists from around the world through their testimonies and to raise awareness among citizens about the need to integrate the defence of human rights into our daily work.

In 2022, the project consisted of two tours and focused on the following topics: defence of the land and the environment; defence of women and the LGBTIQ+ community; the right to peace, civil and political rights; and migrant and refugee rights. Thirteen activists from Colombia, the Sahara, El Salvador, Spain, the Philippines, Ghana, Greece, Honduras, Lebanon, Mexico and South Africa participated in the project.

▪ Arcadi Oliveres Week for Peace

ICIP actively participated in the first Arcadi Oliveres – Week for Peace, an initiative of Justícia i Pau, which took place in Barcelona from 27-30 June. This initiative aims to keep the message and legacy of Arcadi Oliveres alive. The Week for Peace has been presented as a meeting space, open to the participation of all citizens, to rethink the future of our society.

ICIP organized “Dialogue Square” with the Catalan Fund for Development Cooperation and Lafede.cat as part of the initiative. The space featured a human library and an outdoor exhibition.

Workshop with young people during the celebration of the Youth Act! Forum, held in Barcelona in June 2022.

▪ Second Youth Act! International Forum

This year, ICIP organized several workshops for this youth forum, which took place in Barcelona in June and was led by Service Civil International of Catalonia and the Barcelona Youth Council. The conference brought together young people from all over the Mediterranean to share common resistance strategies and to generate shared proposals.

In collaboration with the Barcelona Youth Council, ICIP also participated in 2022 in organizing two work sessions with young people to discuss the relationship between youth activism and the culture of peace.

▪ Periferia Beat Festival

In 2022, ICIP debuted as a participating institution in Perifèria Beat, the urban art festival held in various spaces around the city of Barcelona in October. ICIP invited the rapper Rebeca Lane from Guatemala and organized the roundtable discussion “Peace beats: Urban culture and community ties”, which took place on 14 October.

With the application of its new image to all internal, external, online and offline dissemination materials, ICIP has completed its corporate identity renewal process, which began in 2021.

1 The ICIP website

The institution's main dissemination channel is the website www.icip.cat, available in Catalan, Spanish and English and with links to the various social networks where ICIP has a presence. The website contains information regarding our four thematic work areas, our multiples channels and content for the transmission of knowledge and dissemination of the culture of peace, the activities and initiatives of the Institute, and a direct link to the Library as a reference centre in its field in Catalonia.

The website is updated daily, and the number of visits and users has increased considerably in 2022. This increase is due, in part, to the integration of the content of the Peace in Progress magazine (which was previously hosted on a separate site) in the www.icip.cat website.

External dissemination

2 The ICIP's newsletter

The number of subscriptions to the ICIP electronic newsletter increased in 2022 to 1,250. Monthly newsletters are sent to subscribers to keep them up to date regarding the institution and our calendar of events.

In addition, ICIP has other databases to disseminate activities and initiatives for a specialized public, for example, for subscribers to the Peace in Progress magazine and those interested in the Hip Hop for Peace Contest.

3 Social media

Social media sites are a vital channel for disseminating ICIP activities and news and a forum for debate and exchanging views with the public. In 2022, an upward trend in followers and interactions continued on the various platforms.

The most active sites continue to be Twitter and Facebook. However, our Instagram channel (which has changed its initial profile focused on disseminating the Library's collection to addressing a general audience) and LinkedIn and YouTube experienced a notable increase in 2022. The ICIPTube channel allows for the streaming of events and serves as a repository where videos of the sessions can be found.

Finally, ICIP has a Flickr channel where you can find the most significant images of our activities. Currently, the channel features one thousand photographs.
